

AIDA Black Week: Tempting offers for a winter getaway

November 24, 2022

On Thursday, November 24, 2022, AIDA Cruises launches Black Week. Short-term cruise fans can look forward to selected routes and lots of sun at attractive prices with departures from December to February.

With AIDAsol it goes on the 7-day journey from Las Palmas (Gran Canaria) to La Gomera, La Palma, Lanzarote, Fuerteventura and Tenerife. Always the sun behind it is called also on AIDAnova. The Canary Islands and Madeira spoil on this 7-day trip with pleasant temperatures, breathtaking landscapes and beautiful beaches.

The magical Orient with AIDAcosma gives guests a brilliant summer comeback between spectacular buildings and sheer endless sand dunes. The 7-day trip departs from Dubai or Abu Dhabi.

A time-out from winter is also offered by the 9- and 12-day voyages with AIDAstella from Mallorca. In nine days AIDAstella takes its guests with by the western Mediterranean among other things with attendance in Lisbon and Barcelona. In the Portuguese capital, the cruise ship stays overnight, giving guests plenty of time to extensively explore the metropolis and its diverse nightlife. The 12-day voyage with AIDAstella extends this route with a detour to Fuerteventura and Lanzarote.

To the pearls at the Mediterranean Sea the journeys with AIDAblu lead starting from Mallorca: The cities Civitavecchia, La Spezia, Marseille and Barcelona stand on the program and promise sunshine and southern ease.

The Black Week offers are valid until November 28, 2022. It pays to book quickly, because the allotments are limited.
